An Old Deed.

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
Livingston County.

On the 9th day of August, 1832, personally appeared in Court before C. Haynes, J. Watts, James Cruise and William Stewart Esq., the Court of Livingston County now setting, James Sullinger, a resident of Livingston county, in the State of Kentucky, aged 68 years, who being first duly sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress passed June the 7th, 1832.

That he entered the service of the United States under the following named officers and served as herein stated to-wit:

That he was born 30th December, 1764, in Chatham County, State of North Carolina, and was raised in Guilford County, same state, where he at the age of about 15, volunteered in a company of minute men, commanded by Capt. Gillispie (which was sometimes called Guilford Dragoons.) That the time of his joining this company was just after the defeat of Gates, and at the time the British were on Dan River. This is as high the time as he can remember, and continued in the service until the war ended which he thinks was between two and three years. That during this time the Company was constantly patrolling the country and in suppressing the Tories, moving from one point to another as occasion required, that they often pursued the celebrated Colorado Farming and constantly watched his movements. That at the time of the battle of Whittell's mill, he was a pilot for Col. Lee's men to the iron works at Troublesome Creek.

That after the battle of Guilford, we joined Green's army and proceeded down toward Wilmington as far deep river and there left the pursuit, having been there ordered to turn back and guard some baggage wagons going from Hillsboro to Statesboro loaded with bacon for Green's army, which duty was performed, and we marched down on Little Pedec where the Tories had built a Fort, and who got an item of our approach, fled into the sand hills after setting fire to the fort. That we then joined Col. Isaacs (from Burk County) on deep river near the Buffalo ford and remaining with him about two month's when the country was cleared of the Tories and peace was declared. That he knows of no person in this country (save his brother Peter,) who can prove his service.

There is a Thomas Hamilton in Sumner County, Tennessee, who served with him, and who was living this last spring, but it is impossible to procure his evidence here in this court. That he came to the western country in 1802 and has lived here ever since though not all the time in this county. That he knows of no clergymen whose attendance he can procure without great trouble and expense. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present, and declares that his name is not on the role of the agency of any State. Sworn to before me and subscribed the day and year aforesaid in open Court.

JAMES SULLINGER.

We, William D. Dorris, Timothy O'Neal and Peter Sullinger, residing in the County of Livingston and State of Kentucky, hereby certify that we are well acquainted with James Sullinger who has subscribed and sworn to the above declaration, that we believe him to be sixty-eight years of age, that he is reputed and believed in the neighborhood where he resides to have been a soldier of the Revolution, and that we concur in that opinion. Sworn to and subscribed the day and year afix in open court.

TIMOTHY O'NEAL,
PETER SULLINGER.

Peter Sullinger came personally into court and being duly sworn, deposes and says that he will be sixty-three years of age in September next. That the above named James Sullinger, and that he the said James did serve as a minute man under Gillespie as he has stated in his declaration and from his (said Peter's) knowledge of the facts related in his declaration he does not doubt the truth of everything he has related. That he the said Peter was not old enough himself to know of the service of his brother.

And the said Court do hereby declare their opinion after the investigation of the matter, and after putting the interrogations prescribed by the War Department, that the above named applicant was a revolutionary soldier and served as he states and the Court further certifies that it appears to them that William D. Dorris, Timothy O'Neal and Peter Sullinger who has signed the preceding certificate are residents in the county of Livingston and State of Kentucky, and credible persons, and that in their opinion it would be difficult and too much trouble for the applicant to procure a clergyman to vouch for his standing and character.

Development of Electric Power.

While the actual history of electrical power dates back to 1834, the year Thomas Davenport, the self-taught Vermont blacksmith, discovered the electric motor, the trial development of the power has been during the past fifteen years, and each year sees a greater increase in the business of manufacturing electrical motors, until now it is estimated that fully 10,000 electric motors are turning out every month by the General Electric Company and other large electrical manufacturing concerns.

Since 1870 all power has increased wonderfully in this country. The greatest actual and relative increase occurred between 1890 and 1900. Steam increased 77.7 per cent, gas 1,408.9 per cent, water 15.9 per cent, electricity 1,895.4 per cent, (the greatest increase), other power 944.8 per cent.

The use of electrical current for the transmission of power has been one of the most notable features in the development of manufacturing. In 1890 the United States census reported 15,569 horse power. The census of 1905 showed that this class of power amounted to 1,138,298 horse power. The total of other classes of power were given for 1905 as follows: Steam 19,664,560, gas, 259,514, water, 1,647,969, other power, 91,789, rented, 632,905. From 1900 to 1905 steam power increased only 31 per cent, gas power, 114 per cent, water power 13.3 per cent, electricity 264.4 per cent, other power, 83.6 per cent, rented power, 98.1 per cent.

Mechanical power of some variety was used in 134,529, or 62.2 per cent.

Electricity for every industry is the goal for which electrical manufacturing concerns are striving with the result that motors have been improved and made adaptable for every branch of manufacturing from the sawmills to the mines, from toys to battleships, from the cotton gin to the sewing machine, from the smallest to the largest industrial plant. Motors are made in every size from the little fellow which can be carried in the vest pocket to the monster 6,000 horse power induction motor, the largest in the world, built for the Indiana Steel Corporation by the General Electric Company.

The growth of motor power during current year promises to be even more wonderful than last, and 1906 was far ahead of 1905 in this respect. The cost of electricity has been greatly reduced by the development of the steam turbine. The adoption of direct drive in manufacturing, that is, the motors are connected direct with the machine, doing away with all shafting and belting, and thus saving in transmission from 30 to 60 per cent of the power, has greatly increased the demand for electrical power. The future of electricity is indeed bright. Scientists, inventors and prognosticators say that an electrical age is dawning, and that all the industrial wheels in the world will be turned by the mysterious power in time to come.

Ollie James Puts Life Into the Campaign.

Danville, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Ollie James spoke to a big crowd of Democrats at the Courthouse this afternoon. Much enthusiasm was manifested and the auditors stamped the floor, yelled and waved their hats when the big Congressman scored a point. He said that Wilson had said enough things about him. At Hopkingsville the Republican candidate for Governor said: "We are tired of Crispy Beckham; we are tired of incompetent Hager and we are tired of James." With his characteristic smile, Ollie said: "Well, I have been rolling Gus around a good deal lately."

Mr. James read extracts from the tariff laws and said that he had been formerly bothered a great deal as to why asafetida had been admitted on the free list, and that the whole matter was made clear in his mind when Roosevelt dined with Booker Washington. He denounced Wilson for his declaration that he would have with Booker Washington had he been President Roosevelt and hauled him over the coals as attorney for both the American Tobacco Company and the Continental Tobacco Company. He produced the records to show that Wilson had been representing the trusts.

Mr. James said that Bryan is the greatest Democrat in the world and that the people would not take any other man in his stead and the crowd yelled his approval. The speaker created the first real enthusiasm among local Democrats and work for the whole State ticket will begin in earnest now. At times this afternoon applause lasted for five minutes. Mr. James spoke nearly three hours and the crowd protested when he was forced to stop.

Why Pete Wasn't Sold

Mr. Benson was plowing the ten acre field, and his wife came out to bring him his dinner. She brought Bessie, the six-month-old baby.

The day was warm and Bessie fell fast asleep, so his mother laid him on a quilt in a fence corner where some bushes shaded him and sat down to chat with her husband.

Then old Pete was hooked to the plow and started on a furrow. He went two or three yards, straining at the plow and pulling it along heavily.

Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, and J. H. Orme druggists 25c.

The Middlesome Giraffe

There were two giraffes who kept house together in the desert of Timbuktou. They were a young couple who had recently been married, and because of their inquisitive natures I have called them Adam and Eve.

They were short and stocky and spotted with reds, oranges, yellows, and greens, for in the days I speak of the giraffes ate grain like a horse and did not bother with trees.

One day Eve came running to Adam, saying, "Oh, Adam, I've found the greatest bargain!"

"What is it, my dear?"

"It's a lovely line of marshmallows, arranged up to silver paper, 10¢ here by their last band of English soldiers. It will last me a month at least, and all for nothing."

"TRY A PIECE WITH ME"

"Well, I shan't touch it. I don't believe in eating strange foods," said the husband decidedly.

"Oh, try a piece with me, dear," she pleaded. "You know you won't refuse your Eve."

Saying which she took out a yeast cake from the box and ate it and gave him a piece also.

"It's pretty good," said both. "Makes you thirsty, though," said she after eating nearly the whole box.

Both took a large drink of water at the spring. But, terrible to relate, the yeast began to work and lifted their heads higher and higher and strained their poor necks all out of proportion until they stood eighteen feet high from toe to crown. "Oh, dear, I wish we hadn't eaten them," said Eve.

"Yes, you'd have to get your supper off a tree top tonight. Serves you right; you tempted me," said Adam snidely.

And from that day to this the giraffe has had a long neck. Don't meddle.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Where Mushrooms Grow.

Mushrooms grow in many strange places—among them the catacombs at Paris. Of late another curious field for their growth has been selected in France. The St. Denis (department of the Seine) railway tunnel is no longer used for the purpose for which it was originally intended. The ground therein has been cut up into ridges, divided from each other by means of furrows, upon which whole battalions of mushrooms are now flourishing. In Scotland a company is now growing mushrooms in a tunnel 3,000 feet long. It was originally built by the North British railway, and is 60 feet below the streets of Edinburg.
